

COVID-19

We wanted to take this opportunity to let you know where TMS (Analysis) LTD stands regarding the current concerns around coronavirus and what measures we've taken to protect our staff and customers.

We are grateful to report we've experienced no cases of COVID-19 among our team, and events have not had any impact on our ability to fully support our customers and we're well stocked with the products you need.

We have robust contingency plans in place should this change. TMS is confident we can continue to provide you with the levels of support and assistance you've come to expect. We can still provide you with over the phone & online-help, as well as online training sessions via Teamviewer.

We will of course continue to monitor developments and follow all official advice.

Please check our News section on our website – www.tmsanalysis.co.uk for any updates.

Kind Regards,

TMS (Analysis) Ltd
